CAREER OPPORTUNITIES IN INTERNATIONAL LAW

Hosted by the
INTERNATIONAL LAW STUDENT ASSOCIATION

Where do international lawyers work?

Who are their clients?

What types of cases do they work on?

How do you enter the field?

On which courses should I focus?

Which skillset should I develop?

Explore your options in legal and non-legal careers in the international law field. Research your options as soon as possible in order to better prepare yourself for success.

A Conversation With:
Professor Zachary D. Kaufman

Professor Kaufman has focused his legal career on investigations, apprehension, and prosecution of suspected perpetrators of atrocities, including genocide, war crimes, crimes against humanity, and terrorism. He has served at:

*The U.S. Department of State,
The U.S. Department of Justice,
The United Nations International Criminal
Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia,
The United Nations International Criminal
Tribunal for Rwanda,
The U.S. Court of Appeals for the First Circuit,
The international law firm of
O'Melveny & Myers LLP, and
